Die bekende sanger Zanne Stapelberg tree op Vrydag 2 Augustus saam met haar topstudente op tydens Badisa se Cuddle for a Cause-aand by die NG kerk Panorama.

Die aand is ten bate van Badisa se kinderbeskermingsprogramme vir kwesbare kinders, onder meer die Kuumba Care-program vir verwaarloosde kinders, wat in 2022 begin is.

Stapelberg, bekend vir haar emosioneel ryk stem en hartlike optredes, wy haar talente aan hierdie waardige saak. "Baie kinders het nie die geleentheid om hul drome te volg nie," sê sy. "Hierdie geleentheid het ten doel om dit te verander."

Die aand belooft 'n boeiende reis deur flieks en musiekblyspele. Deur 'n kaartjie te koop, sal gaste nie net keurige musiek en 'n heerlike dierganganalyse geniet nie, maar ook aansluit by 'n gemeenskap wat diep omgee vir die toekoms van kinders, sê sy.

By die geleentheid gaan Badisa ook sy Kuumba Care-program bekendstel. Dié program voorsien noodsaaklike dienste aan verwaarloosde kinders. Die Kuumba-klereëreks en -produkte kan ook besigtig word.

"Kuumba" beteken letterlik "om ons kreatiwiteit te gebruik, om soveel as wat ons kan te doen, op die manier wat ons kan, om ons gemeenskap mooier te laat as voorheen," sê sy.

Ouers krap saam kop by Gene Louw

Die Laerskool Gene Louw het op 19 Oktober en 2 November sy eerste RoboRookies-robotika-kompetisie vir grondslagfaseleerders aangebied. Dit het behels dat gr. 2- en gr. 3-deelnemers elk saam met een van hul ouers werk om 'n robot volgens spesifieke instruksies te bou en te kodeer om sekere take uit te voer.

Die organiseerders het soveel inskrywings ontvang dat twee sessies vir elke graadgroep gereël moes word. Elke span se bouproses en kodering is beoordeel om 'n wenner per sessie te bepaal.

ChinguBots se Aikido-robotkastelle, wat ook by die skool in die robotika-klas gebruik word, is vir die kompetisie ingespan.

NUUSKIERIG

"Behalwe om robotika op 'n prettige manier te bevorder, was hierdie inisiatief ook daarop gemik om ouers wat dalk nuuskierig is oor wat hul kinders in die robotika-klas leer, betrokke te kry en hulle die geleentheid te gee om op 'n yklike voet saam aan iets te werk," sê Amanda Heath, die skool se kodering- en robotika-opvoeder vir die grondslagfase.

Te oordeel aan die terugvoer van deelnemers, het die kompetisie nie net in dié doel geslaag nie, maar alle verwagtings oortref.

Kurt, wat saam met Mia 'n robotkarretjie moes bou en kodeer, sê hy is verstom deur die impak van die ervaring. "Dit was ongelooflik. Dit was so lekker om saam met haar probleme op te los. Die logiese denke wat die kinders nou leer, is goed wat ons nooit geleer het toe ons jonk was nie."

"Die beste deel was dat ek en my pa lekker kon saamwerk ..."

- Karli van der Riet

Joshua Barnard (gr. 2) en sy ma, Delorsy, sit koppe bymekaar om hul robot te voltooi.

"Die beste deel was dat ek en my pa lekker kon saamwerk en tyd saam deurbring," sê Karli van der Riet (gr. 3), wat saam met haar pa, Kobus, deelgeneem het.

Die gr. 2-wenners was Ruan de Wind en sy pa, Hanno, en Mia van der Walt en haar pa, Kurt. Van die gr. 3's het Salome Josling en haar pa, Jacques, en Euan Vosloo en sy pa, Basil, met die louere weggestap.

Ruan de Wind (gr. 2), wat met sy pa, Hanno, saamgespan het, ontvang sy prys van Amanda Heath, kodering- en robotika-opvoeder.

Mia van der Walt (gr. 2) het haar spanmaat, Pa Kurt, 'n ding of twee oor kodering gewys. Amanda Heath, kodering- en robotika-opvoeder, wens haar geluk.

Euan Vosloo (gr. 3), wat saam met sy pa, Basil, deelgeneem het, ontvang sy prys van Amanda Heath, kodering- en robotika-opvoeder.

Amanda Heath, kodering- en robotika-opvoeder, met Salome Josling, wat een van die wensterpe met haar pa, Jacques, se hulp gebou het.

Curro dribbles into Cape Town with soccer schools

Curro Holdings is expanding the Pitso Mosimane Soccer Schools (PMSS) programme to six additional schools in 2025, including Meridian Pinehurst in Durbanville and Curro Academy Sandown in Parklands – introducing the programme to the Western Cape for the first time.

With a total of 17 Curro schools now on board, the programme is driving a new era in youth soccer development across the country, according to a media release by Curro Holdings.

The other schools set to benefit from the programme include Curro Academy Mbombela and Meridian Karino in Mpumalanga, Curro Academy Wilgeheuwel in Roodepoort and Meridian Rustenburg in North West.

This expansion marks another milestone in Curro's ongoing partnership with legendary football coach Pitso Mosimane, which began in January 2023.

The group made history as South Africa's first school group to collaborate with the coach, launching PMSS at Curro Northern Academy in Polokwane and Curro Meridian Cosmo City in Roodepoort.

The arrival of the PMSS programme in the Western Cape marks a significant milestone.

The programme is poised to make a meaningful impact on youth soccer development in the province, inspiring young players and cultivating a competitive, skill-enhancing environment.

The PMSS model provides a structured pathway for players aged 6 to 18, guiding them from grassroots development to high-performance training, according to the media release.

An artist's representation of the proposed Cape Winelands Airport.

A public open day is being held to discuss the proposed extension of Cape Winelands Airport, including a 3.5 km runway and supporting infrastructure.

However, residents and environmental consultants have criticised the short notice and lack of a formal meeting for transparent discussion.

Public comments on the draft environmental impact report are open until 13 December, with documents available online and at Fisantekraal Library.

Some residents are upset that an invitation to a public open day about the proposed extension of Cape Winelands Airport today (Wednesday 20 November) was sent out to interested and affected parties only a week ago.

The event will be held from 14:00 to 20:00 at Goedgeleven in Klipheuwel Road, outside Durbanville.

The phased airport development will include the construction of a primary runway with a length of 3.5 km. Associated airport infrastructure for land-side and air-side use will also be phased in based on market demand.

Public open day

This public open day forms part of a One Environmental Management System application for a scoping and draft environmental-impact assessment process for the project.

Affected and interested parties have 30 days to provide PHS Consulting with comments – up to and inclusive of 13 December – by email to amanda@phsconsulting.co.za.

Disrespect

Larry Eichstadt, an environmental consultant at Resource Management Services (RMS), says the current public consultation process is being driven legalistically, and although it may tick the boxes it shows complete disrespect to the larger Durbanville community at this time of the year, allowing as it does the specialist consultants involved in the project to hide away to some extent.

"It is imperative that a formal public meeting be held where the specialists present their reports in public and be questioned at the same time," he said. "A public open day is potentially a soft, very hidden approach for this type of project."

Eichardt said the circulation of a draft environmental impact report (DEIR) of such a significant project for the Durbanville community at this time of year, without making the DEIR available well into January 2025, is highly questionable.

"It would appear as if the public-participation process was being driven to the satisfaction of the client's deadlines with complete disregard to fair public consultation processes.

"The notification of a public open day one week prior to the date and the fact that no formal public meeting where all professionals are required to formally present their reports and be questioned in a transparent manner and, where necessary, defend their findings, compounds the questionable public participation process. It amplifies the fact that focus is on the client's and applicant's needs and desires and not the EIA process and associated ethics.

"Why is no copy of the DEIR being placed at the Durbanville Public Library?"

Advertised

On enquiry by TygerBurger, Paul Slabbert of PHS Consulting commented that "it is good practice to have the open public day early in the 30-day comment period.

"It provides valuable information early enough to assist members of the public in formulating their comments. The public open day was advertised in TygerBurger on 13 November and all the readers should have seen it by now. All registered interested and affected parties were also notified directly by either email address or SMS."

Focused engagement

"An open day is regarded as the most efficient way to provide a full informative day," Slabbert pointed out. "In our case we are allowing for six hours of focused engagement from 14:00 to 20:00, giving people the opportunity to interact with the specialists on a one-on-one basis to ask anything they need clarity on.

"Considering the wide window provided to visit the venue it allows flexibility opposed to a set meeting time, and as a result many people already confirmed their attendance.

"It is more interactive than sitting in a meeting with presentations, and from experience the format of an open public day is more productive.

"We have already hosted a formal meeting at a community hall, on Wednesday 8 May, which was widely advertised and open to all members of the public.

"An open day scheduled for Wednesday 20 November is not in the December holidays, which typically start from Friday 20 December. We are within the allowance of the NEMA regulations and the DEA&DP official circular for completion of public participation within this period."

Second round of public participation

"The DEIR states, on page 10, 703 and 704, that a second round of public participation is planned for early 2025," Slabbert said.

"Placement of hard copies is determined by whether the community has access to electronic means or not and which is the most accessible for people who don't have their own transport. Therefore the Fisantekraal library is justified, and the reason for a hard copy being placed plus the facilities are first-class, it's safe and there is secure parking."

1.2.1. Proof of English and isiXhosa advertisement placement in the Durbanville Tygerburger on 19 March 2025:

A viral moment erupted during a public dialogue on land justice and the signed expropriation act as a tool for land justice hosted at the University of the Western Cape (UWC) by the Institute for Poverty, Land and Agrarian Studies (PLAAS) and Tshisimani Centre for Activist Education (TCAE).

The public and students alike gathered on Tuesday 11 March in the Jakes Gerwel Hall on the UWC's Bellville Campus to promote potential benefits to be reaped of the newly signed act. Samora Majeke from Intlungu YemaTsoyoni, a Zulu-speaking Xhosa, urged for a change in the City. Nazeer Soudany from the Food and Farming Campaign, Women on Farms' Bettie Fortuin, and UWC SRC President McIntosh Khasembe provided three-minute deliveries to the minister. Sentiments shared touched on the yearning of those "who work the land, to work their land!" as passionately voiced by Fortuin in her address.

The Minister of Land Reform and Rural Development, Mzwanele Nyhontso, delivered a keynote address and heard responses from activists, communities and students during a panel discussion and open dialogue session. Near the end of the open dialogue, however, chaos ensued among the audience after a question was posed concerning the protection of private property in the wake of potential illegal land grabs.

Platform for 'open' dialogue
UWC Rector and Vice-Chancellor, Prof Robert Balfour, welcomed guests and the Minister and encouraged them to continue using the university platforms for critical debates such as land expropriation, justice and reconciliation.

In his keynote address, the Minister emphasised the importance of expropriation as a historical and contemporary tool for achieving land justice in South Africa. He highlighted the deep connections to identity dignity and economic security amidst ongoing inequalities shaped by race and class.

He said: "There is no day designated for the restoration of land. Despite our painful history."

JACKET CHALLENGE AND COTQUEEN

The Minister also didn't hesitate to address current diplomatic exchanges between South Africa and the United States of America and addressed US President Donald Trump's remarks that white farmers are welcome in the USA as their land is being forcefully confiscated as per the current Act.

He said: "The President of the United States, Donald Trump, issued an invitation to South African farmers, to Afrikaners to come to the United States because the South African government is confiscating their land. The expropriation act is not for land confiscation.

Several comments from the floor spoke directly to the government's involvement in evictions, with one university law student asking the Minister if the expropriation act would be used to protect people looking for housing, instead of the government regarding them as "enemy number one".

The Minister reiterated that government's job was to serve its people.

He said: "When we say Land First, we are not talking about land grabbing, because land grabbing amounts to theft and theft is the modus operandi of settler colonialists. Settler colonialists can never be our teachers. We do not have to steal what is already ours."

However, the minister's speech did not rely or elaborate on any statistical or historical data to reflect a balanced view of the extent of "stolen land" in this instance referred to, except for broad references to historic injustice and sizable land owned by a single farmer in Bloemfontein, Free State.

PLAAS noted that while negative reactions to the expropriation act have dominated the public narrative, the voices of those who stand to benefit and who want land to be expropriated have not been heard.

MISSING VOICES

Prof Ruth Hall, the Acting Director at PLAAS who also served on President Cyril Ramaphosa's advisory panel on land reform, said that over the past three decades, national government has not prioritised land redistribution. Siviwe Mdoda of TCAE, who facilitated the open dialogue, said that although the event was fruitful, these kinds of engagements should not be once off, but the beginning of a dialogue between the Department of Land Reform and Rural Development and affected communities to move towards more meaningful engagements

Nykontso spoke of the need for redress and that even when land is put on the open market for sale, the state needs to be alerted, and considerations of re-purchase should be undertaken.

When the floor opened for questions from the audience, TygerBurger asked the minister, considering the establishment of the Government of National Unity (GNU) indicating growing distrust in national government's competence in exercising its mandate - exactly how government would guarantee the protection of private property vulnerable to potential land invasions. The audience's reception of this question was hostile, while Nyhontso's answer did not address the question at its core.

Walk in heels against violence

ESME ERASMUS

Durbanville Lions Club hosted its first Walk in Heels for Gender-based Violence (GBV) Awareness on International Women's Day at the De Ville Centre on Saturday 8 March.

The fundraising event aimed at raising awareness of and funds for gender-based violence prevention and support services. It encouraged men to secure sponsorships to walk laps in heels, with participants given 45 minutes to complete as many laps as possible.

"As this was the first time such an event was hosted it did not unfold exactly as planned," said Danielle Cronje, president of Durbanville Lions Club. "Instead, we welcomed men visiting the centre to participate and contribute donations towards the cause. The primary objectives remained to raise funds and awareness, foster empathy and understanding, and actively engage with the community in the fight against gender-based violence."

"COURAGE AND WILLINGNESS"

"We had about 15 men joining the cause," Cronje said. "Their courage and willingness to step out of their comfort zones symbolises true 'allyship' in the fight against gender-based violence."

"Walking in heels may be challenging, but it's nothing compared to the struggles faced by survivors. Their participation sends a powerful message of solidarity, empathy and commitment to change. It's inspiring to see men take an active role in raising awareness and standing up for a cause that affects everyone."

Why heels? "To promote empathy and understanding by encouraging men to literally and figuratively 'walk in the shoes' of those affected by gender-based violence, fostering a deeper understanding of the challenges they face."

"Including men in gender-based violence education is essential in creating a society where safety, respect, and equality are the norm. Men play a crucial role as allies, advocates and changemakers in challenging harmful norms, fostering empathy and promoting accountability."

"By engaging men in these conversations and initiatives, we not only broaden awareness, but also encourage active participation in prevention efforts."

"KEY PARTNERS"

Although the expected funds were not raised, "exposure to this topic is more important," she said. Proceeds will be donated to Olympians Social Development and Education, an organisation that raises awareness of gender-based violence in Fisantekraal and surrounding areas.

"Our event was supported by key partners, including the Durbanville Victim Empowerment Programme, Durbanville Community Policing Forum, Durbanville police and the Breath Foundation."

Vital information, referrals and pamphlets were shared, providing resources on different forms of abuse and where to seek help. Several women received direct referrals for assistance.

"We extend our sincere gratitude to De Ville Centre and its management, The Crazy Store, Wimpy and Virgin Active for their enthusiastic participation," said Cronje, "and also, Designer Water and Uitzicht Pharmacy."

For Emile Plaatjies of De Ville Centre management the event put "walking in someone else's shoes" in perspective. He said men, especially, needed to look inwards to do more to stop this. "Anyone who wants to contribute to this cause or join Durbanville Lions Club must send an email to info.durbanvillelionsclub@gmail.com or follow the organisation on Facebook."
